

Regulations for Certification of Edgecross Recommended Industrial PC

1. These regulations apply to the following relating to the certification test defined in "Edgecross Consortium Terms of Membership"; certification test items to be performed by the industrial PC vendor, certification test result report, certificate, and logo display that indicates the Edgecross recommended products.
2. The certified industrial PC will be the Edgecross recommended product.
3. The target of the certification is the product itself. In principle, the industrial PC vendor shall apply for the certification test.
4. The certification test is for checking that Edgecross Basic Software can operate on the industrial PC vendor's product, and it does not guarantee the function, quality, performance, or others of the industrial PC vendor's product.
5. An Edgecross recommended industrial PC is certified for each major version of Edgecross Basic Software.
6. Conduct the certification test using Edgecross Basic Software with the latest version.
7. An industrial PC which has passed the test once shall take the certification test again if a change that may affect the operation of Edgecross Basic Software occurs.
8. For sale of the proprietary industrial PC which has been certified according to the certification test, the Edgecross logo can be displayed for the purpose of indicating that the product is an Edgecross Consortium recommended product with the guideline (including, but not limited to, the display method and display position) separately specified by Edgecross Consortium. The industrial PC vendor shall display the logo in a manner to prevent the recommended product from being misunderstood as the product whose function, quality, performance, and others are guaranteed by Edgecross Consortium.
9. The certification is for a fee (50000 yen per product).
After the payment of the certification test fee, the certificate is issued.
 - * If the test period is extended due to lack of documents or other reasons, an additional fee is charged with a quote given.
10. The industrial PC vendor shall prepare the equipment required for conducting the certification test such as Edgecross Basic Software and others.
